ONE DEAD AND THREE FATALLY INJURED IN COLLISION IN TOLEDO

Cloverleaf Freight and String of Oil Tanks Come Together Early Tuesday—Flames Sweep Wreckage Following Smash.

Toledo, O., April 3.—As a result of a collision between a Cloverleaf freight train and a string of oil tanks today, one man is believed to have been killed and three others were probably fatally injured.

J. Flickinger, conductor of the tank car train is missing and believed dead beneath the wreckage. The injured are J. Walding, Toledo, flagman; A. W. Thomas, engineer and W. Farris, fireman on the Clover Leaf train, of Delphos, O.

All three of the injured are suffering from scalds and internal injuries.

The wreck occurred early this morning at the Glendale avenue crossing, when the Clover Leaf freight, an extra out of Delphos, traveling at a high rate of speed, plowed through the wooden caboose of the terminal train.

The force of the collision set fire to the oil in the last tank and within a short time the entire wreckage was in flames.

The fire spread rapidly, eating up telephone and telegraph poles as well as the freight cars.

The rescuers and firemen tried to reach the caboose of the terminal train, where the flagman said he saw Conductor Flickinger asleep shortly before the accident. They failed, however, and it is the belief of of-

President Gives Ear to
Nicholas Murray Butler
On Subject

Augusta, Ga., April 3.—President Harding is being urged to wage a finish fight on his proposal that the United States participate in the international court of justice set up by the League of Nations.

This fact became apparent following a talk between the executive and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University. Dr. Butler was one of the "best minds" called into conference by Mr. Harding at Marion shortly after his election.

After his talk with the president, Dr. Butler expressed the opinion that the court proposal would furnish a good campaign issue. He declared in principle it is a sound Republican doctrine, pledged by Republicans of two generations."

Dr. Butler also made the assertion that participating in the court "would be no more going into the League than going into the Holy Roman Empire." Touching on the possibility of a party split over such an issue he declared the split would be "98 and 2, with opponents to the proposal forming the small end."

The proposal was submitted by President Harding to the Senate in the closing days of the Sixty-seventh Congress, and was smothered by the foreign relations committee.

President Harding continued to lead the members of his party a merry chase over the golf links. After a foursome in the forenoon he took to the links directly after luncheon for nine holes more. The only member of the party who was able to follow the fast pace was Edward B. McLean, Mr. Harding's host. The other members of the first foursome were Dr. Butler and George James, who has charge of the transportation arrangements of the presidential trip.

They were Representative Gillette of Massachusetts, former speaker, and Secretary Christian. The president expects to see his first baseball game of the season this afternoon, a clash between the Toronto team of the International League and Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers. He will be the guest of Judge Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball. Other members of the party were guests at a barbecue breakfast given by the city of Augusta. Last night they were entertained by the Augusta Lodge of Elks.

Archbishop Cieplak,

NO TINKERING WITH TARIFF IS OLD GUARD PLAN

Program of Progressives
Vigorously Opposed By Rivals

Washington, April 3.—There will be no tinkering with the tariff and tax laws at the next session of congress if the Old Guard Republican leaders can prevent it.

Announcement to this effect was made by Senator Watson of Indiana, who was at the capital for a few hours en route to New York, having just come from Cuba.

Senator Watson said the plans of the Republican leaders for the next session do not include any amendatory measures with reference to existing tax rates, nor revision of the income or surtax rates. Neither is it planned, he said, to bring the tariff law up for amendment.

Coming upon the heels of the announcement made by Representative Nelson of Wisconsin of plans agreed upon by the "progressive bloc" to cut down the tax rates, Senator Watson's statement is full of significance. It means that the senate leaders will do all in their power to prevent the "progressives" from any attempt to carry out their program. The safest way to accomplish this end is to keep the tax law and the tariff just where they are and not allow either of them to be brought into the senate or house for amendment. If either measure were submitted for changes which might be favored by the Old Guard, this very act would make the entire measure open to amendment. The consequence might be that the whole tax raising system and the tariff also would be riddled by the combined votes of the "progressive blocs" and the Democrats, a combination which could easily outvote the Old Guard.

Senator Watson said he will see Secretary of State Hughes later in the week to discuss questions of foreign policy. The senator desires particularly to get the state department's viewpoint regarding the proposed international court membership. He said he had not made up his mind whether to support the Harding-Hughes court proposal or to oppose it, as he wanted first to learn more about it.

Senator Watson is opposed to an advancement of the court idea, which might result in its being made an issue in the presidential campaign. If it appears probable that insistence upon action of the league court proposal will throw the whole issue of American participation in foreign affairs into the 1924 campaign, Senator Watson and other Republican leaders will urge that the matter be laid aside until after the campaign is over.

Trouble.

"Yes, I am only too glad to add my testimony to the many others who have found grateful relief from indigestion through the use of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup," said Miss Florence Walton, a well-known professional nurse living at 1832 Girard Ave., Philadelphia, and who is employed at a prominent hospital in that city.

"My stomach had been giving me trouble for three years," continued Miss Walton, "and I was almost in despair of ever getting over it. My food would sour and produce such quantities of gas that it distressed me very much. I hardly had any appetite at all and was dreadfully constipated.

"Headaches worried me constantly and I would often have spells of dizziness that came on unexpectedly and interfered with my work. I fell off in weight and rested very poorly at night or whenever I tried to sleep when off duty."

"I read so much about Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup I determined to try it. I took four bottles and have gotten over my troubles and feel just fine."

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by all leading druggists and if it does not benefit you the purchase price will be refunded.

In Xenia it is featured by Sayre & Hemphill and the Sohn Drug Store.

ADDRESS AND PROGRAM AT P. T. A. MEETING

A tribute to mothers and to the success of the Parent-Teacher organizations in the city, was paid by Superintendent of City Schools, C. A. Waltz, in an address before the members of the Parent-Teachers Association, of Orient Hill School, at the meeting of the organization held at the school, Monday afternoon.

"The Elements of Making Success in Community Life," was the subject of Superintendent Waltz's address, his statements being devoted to praise of the Orient Hill P. T. A., as a proof of the success to be attained by the school and home organization. "The P. T. A. is working and doing its bit in bettering each section of the town," said Mr. Waltz. The P. T. A. wants better moral atmosphere, and each individual P. T. A., with that end in view and combined in federation, the work will be accomplished. The P. T. A. is composed of women united because of childhood," he said.

"Any organization based on the Golden Rule, will never die," he continued, "and the aims of the P. T. A. are to help and live for others." The address was highly instructive and appreciated by the members of the organization.

The meeting of the members of the Association, opened with a business meeting, at which it was decided to hold an election of officers in May. A committee was appointed to plan for the Community Social, to be given by the organization, at the school, Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Each family who attends the affair is asked to bring sandwiches.

The treasurers report submitted at the meeting, showed a balance of $82.03 in the fund of the organization.

The feeding of the underprivileged children of the school, is practically self-supporting, according to members, aided by the cooperation between the parents and the school.

A program was presented by the pupils of the school, under the direction of their teachers, who were complimented by the members of the P. T. A. A play, presented by the pupils of the second grade was well acted, and was followed by a piano solo by Ivadale Yeager. The third grade pupils, presented a dramatization of their reading lesson, for the amusement of their guests.

Following the program, a social time with refreshments of coffee and sandwiches was enjoyed. Forty members of the P. T. A., attended the meeting.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

Capital assured of protection in the Philippine Islands would quickly flow to them, says a bulletin from one of the greatest banks in America. But, it adds, there has been no thought given by Congress to the Philippines. Why?

Fruits grow in profusion in the Philippines—bananas, oranges, mangoes and particularly pineapples. The soil is peculiarly adapted to pineapples, producing fruit of delicious flavor and enormous size.

In 1921 (the latest full year's report) the United States imported from other countries bananas to the amount of $19,385,174, and pineapples $1,571,959. Figures for coconuts for the same year are more encouraging—the islands supplied us with $8,147,702, of a total of $7,381,863.

The fertility of the soil is great. There is water in abundance, and even during the dry season vegetation luxuriates. Corn, yams and potatoes flourish, and coconut plantations and hemp farms are seen on every hand. The land is ready for tilling. A big cattle industry is carried on and the cattle are of a fine breed, bringing good prices. The islands are the big producing ground of the nearby Orient.

Congress has neglected the Philippines. Recently the crude rubber situation directed attention to the islands and exploration parties are being organized under federal auspices to estimate the resources there. But here is a big agricultural field already functioning. The Philippines should be encouraged and developed to their greatest possibilities under a wide and comprehensive congressional program which will insure protection to capital needed to give the islands their greatest development.

AMERICA ENJOYS A FLOOD TIDE OF BUSINESS.

Samuel M. Vauclain, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, of Philadelphia, who some time ago was making speeches squinting toward free trade and internationalism, confessedly has had his ardor chilled by the disposition of certain foreign nations, notably Great Britain, to discriminate against American producers in foreign markets. In a speech at a noonday luncheon of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce, New York City, last week he suggested that Great Britain move toward raising the standard of living of the British working man to the American level, abandon the policy of trying to bar American business in foreign fields, and adopt the American business men's slogan, which he declared to be quality and service regardless of price. Until some such reformation has been made, Mr. Vauclain said he will remain in favor of a protective tariff wall about the United States "so high that the sun would not shine in New York City until 10 o'clock in the morning." He expressed the opinion that by those means also the reciprocal commerce between the two great English speaking nations could be increased. Touching on economic conditions Mr. Vauclain said that as far as our ability to handle it is concerned America is enjoying a flood tide of domestic business. "The outlook is through rose-tinted glass," he said, "and the mass of business offered to the manufacturers and producers of England and the United States is almost inconceivable. In expounding his conception of a desirable live and let live trade policy the speaker declared that under the present British policy "wherever and whenever possible the English manufacturer is given the opportunity to bid for the business required, while the American producer is barred."

THE MEANING OF SLANG.

Much has been written about the origin, use and abuse of slang expressions. Slang has been the subject of debate at literary societies and has its detractors and defenders. It has been defined in all sorts of ways by pedants and purists. One authority describes slang as "inelegant and unauthorized popular language consisting of words of low or illiterate origin and use." Another goes so far as to describe it as "the cant or jargon peculiar to thieves and vagrants," while another authority with a more genial disposition castigates it mildly, stating that "slang is an expression not necessarily coarse or low, and perhaps not incorrect, but below the literary grade."

It sometimes happens that a lawsuit depends upon the interpretation that is placed upon slang expression. There was such a case in the High Court of Ontario, Canada, a few weeks ago, that of Latta vs. the Acme Cheese company. An employee who had been engaged under contract for the season and who had been later dismissed for insolence, sued for breach of contract. The case was heard by Mr. Justice Mowat. The main defense of the company was that the plaintiff was always "chewing the rag" with the president. "The real basis of the chief defense," states Judge Mowat in a written judgment "was that the plaintiff and the president of the defendant company, in several encounters over the business of the factory were heard 'chewing the rag' which meant that they were heard indulging in a free exchange of Hudibrastic epithet with mutual suggestion as in ignobility of natal origin and pungent asseveration of mental inferiority."

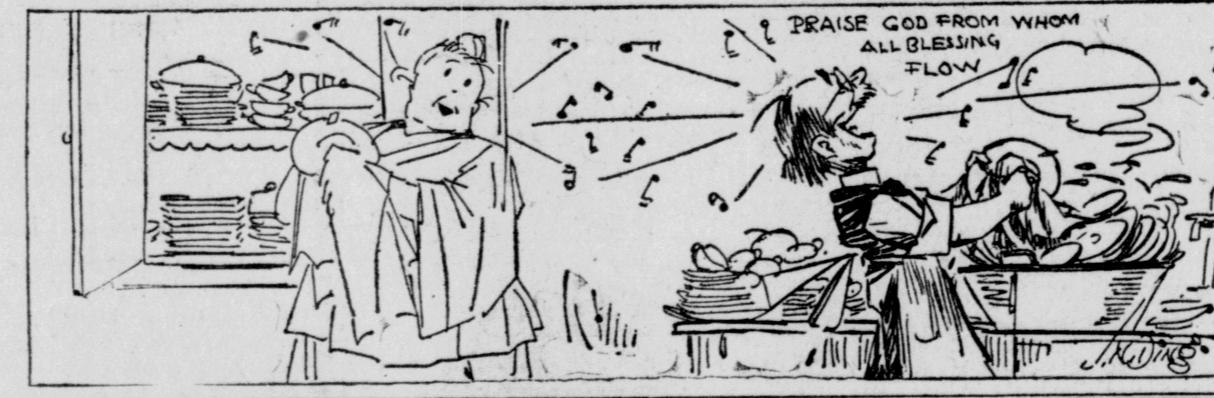

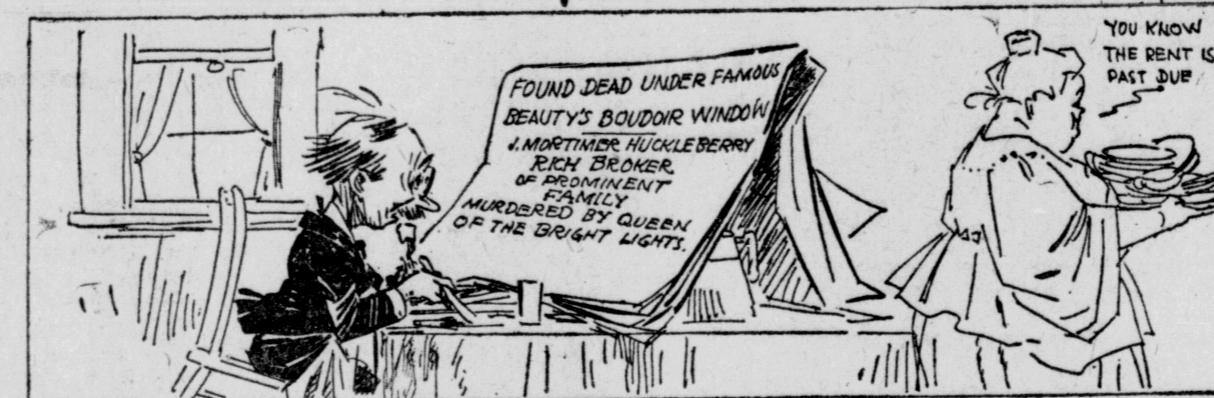

Having thus arrived at a clear understanding of what had been taking place, the judge found that "indulgence in this verbal pastime between employer and employee, on equals terms socially and commercially, as between man and man, with give and take, is not sufficient ground for breaking of the contract."

Now if slang is an expression below the literary grade, and in "chewing the rag" really means all that Judge Mowat says it does, it might be respectfully urged that an expression of three words that can convey so much meaning at once should receive the accolade of literary respectability.

FROM A "MERE TOY" TO THE BILLION DOLLAR CLASS.

If the stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company authorize the increase of its capital stock which its officers desire, the company will thereby take its place among the few American corporations in the billion-dollar class. These include the United States Steel Corporation, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the General Motors Corporation. When it is recalled that for a long while after its invention the telephone was regarded as a mere toy, in the ultimate general acceptance of which as a practical business necessity few had much faith, the growth of the company is the more remarkable. More than 14,000,000 stations, representing an increase of 670,000 during 1922, and more than 30,000,000 miles of wire, are included in the systems operated by twenty-five associated companies earning 5.6 per cent on their book cost in 1922.

The workmen will begin on the erection of the building next week and the plant promises to be an extensive one. April seems to be making an effort to please everybody in the matter of weather and has given us samples of all sorts within the past day. Yesterday opened warm but the day brought a high wind and a torrent of rain in the afternoon.

Then at night it became cold and the third of April found a light fall of snow.

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS

Charles D.: I would be glad to mail you the formula for a hair tonic which I think will help save your hair. In the meantime massage a small amount of olive oil into the scalp to relieve its dryness.

M. H.: Bleach the hair on your legs by giving it repeated applications of peroxide of hydrogen and it will show through the stockings. This is much better than using a depilatory or shaving, as in each case the hair will grow again only much coarser than it was at first.

Pandora: If your skin is clear when you awaken in the morning and full of blackheads at night it shows the effect of the soil your skin has absorbed during the day. It is much better to dissolve this dust and dirt with a cleaning cream and remove it with a hot, damp cloth, than to steam it as you are doing. But no matter which treatment you take, if you do anything to open the pores you must close them, after you have cleared them, or you invite blackheads. An ice rub is the best, as it invigorates the skin, but if this is not convenient dashes of very cold water will be a fair substitute.

Tau L.: A cream that is both healing and astringent is what your skin requires to counteract this tendency to chapping. That accounts for the lemon juice soothing it even more than an oil. An excellent lip salve for skin that softens and heals is made by taking any good cream as a basis and adding to it as much powdered alum as will be needed to make it astringent. Try this out with a small quantity first, or have your druggist do it for you. If you were making the cream, spirits of camphor would be used to make it astringent instead of the lemon, but it could not be beaten into a cream already made.

W. J. Z.: You will likely outrun this tendency to pimples in another few years, but in the meantime do not aggravate it by too many sweets. It will help much if you drink plenty of water between meals.

Waiting: There are plenty of cases in which the skin has been cleared of pimples through the yeast treatment, but if it does not show an effect on the skin in a week or two, I would suggest that it should be continued.

I neither advise nor object to the use of these facial clays, as I realize it is sometimes to a woman's advantage to look extra well for an occasion, even though she must recover from it later. Most of these clays cleanse the pores while they are also absorbing all natural secretions in the skin. They are also astringent, which should be all right for skins that need it.

A youthful skin or one that secretes much oil, would recover more quickly from this sort of treatment, but the older woman or the young one with a dry skin will find that she will have to feed her skin for several days with plenty of cream before there is a full recovery.

P. A. E.: You can consult any dermatologist about this, and if he does not perform the operation he can recommend someone who does; however I should not advise you to have it done unless the nose is so badly shaped that it spoils your appearance.

Marion, Ind.—"I was all run-down, nervous and bent over. I could hardly drag around, let alone do my work. I read some letters in the papers telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and I thought I would try it. Then a man told my husband about his wife and what good it had done her and wanted him to have me try it. I took one bottle and could see what it did for me in a week's time, and when I had taken three bottles I had gained both in strength and weight and was doing my own work. I took it before my last baby was born and it helped me so much. I sure am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who suffers from female ailments, for I know by experience what it can do. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, also the Liver Pills, too, and think them fine."—Mrs. Wm. Eldridge, 620 E. Grant Street, Marion, Indiana.

NEW WAYS TO LIVE

As the years accumulate, we learn new things about ourselves and new things about life. And, although this is a perfectly natural process, still are we often taken back by the simplest of revelations.

It takes time to bury many of our fondest illusions.

But as we do put them to their last rest, we walk out into a freer world than ever. We enter upon new ways to live, for we see new things to work for—and, in most cases, better things.

It is possible for anyone to choose his method of growth, whether by a series of happy or unhappy events.

I know that it is customary to believe otherwise. But custom doesn't pick men out of the ordinary and raise them to high stations of originality and power.

He grows most who faces the largest number of new ways to live. Each day should find us all facing a new world and a new chance.

Who is there who has not known sorrow to his flood gate? And how often have we withdrawn alone to some quiet place, there to contemplate upon the strangeness of human frailty and our own numberless lacks.

But if we only come back to the crowd of moving men and women again with rebuilt resolves and washed out hearts, we need have no fear of our fate.

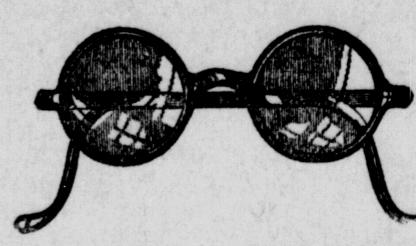

No matter how hard or far you may have fallen—get up! There is always a new way to live. And the chances are that the new way will be better than the old.

SWIMMING BEACH BELIEVED ASSURED FOLLOWING MEETING

Assurance that a swimming beach will be developed in the Dodds addition this spring as the first step in the proposed program of playground and recreational facilities for this city was given at the meeting of the executive committee of the Community Recreation Association held at City Hall Monday night.

This was the first meeting of the executive committee formed at the meeting at McKinley School a week ago. The belief that the swimming beach can be developed is based on the fact that F. W. Dodds, who is developing the Roberts tract has loaned the use of sufficient territory in the proposed park tract and also on the report of a committee appointed to survey the situation, and which reported that the plan is practicable.

The committee reported that by cleaning out the bottom of the low-lands to the level of the creek bed and putting in a layer of sand and gravel a maximum depth of seven feet can be obtained without raising the water level higher than was kept for the skating pond last winter. From the deepest part, the gravelled bottom, according to the plans proposed will slope up to a safe wading depth for small children, making a total area of 10 by 150 feet under water. With community assistance on the project the plan will be carried out this spring.

Monday night's meeting was for the purpose of outlining a recreation program for Xenia. During the discussion it was pointed out how strongly the sentiment of the community was becoming aroused for the development of the play facilities within the city limits and how easily it can be accomplished when the energy of the entire citizen body, working through committees, is applied to the task.

A communication was read at the meeting from the Playground and Recreation Association of America in which it was stated that upon request they would send one of their trained workers from Xenia to show backers of the movement here how to organize and carry on the recreation work through local associations. The organization is philanthropic and does not ask the local organization for pledges of money in return for this assistance.

The executive committee will meet again Thursday night at which time it will be decided whether an effort will be made to obtain this free assistance from the expert workers.

Columbus, April 3.—Frank B. Mauler and George T. Poor, members of the public utilities commission, refused to tender their resignations, as requested by Governor Donahey. FILE SUIT AGAINST KIRBY

Cleveland, April 3.—A $1,500,000 suit against Josiah Kirby, former president of the Cleveland Discount company, was instituted here by the receivers of the concern. The sum named is said to be the amount of stock outstanding and charged to Kirby at the time of his resignation, and moneys loaned to the Sharon Pressed Steel company.

THIRD SUIT ASKING DAMAGES OF FORMER SHERIFF IS FILED

Alleging permanent injuries as the result of being shot three times by the defendant or members of his posse, Dorsey Nickells, a minor, by Clara Nickells, as his next friend, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Lincoln Funderburgh, former sheriff of Greene County asking damages in the sum of $25,000.

The suit is the third filed by Attorney C. L. Darlington for plaintiffs against the ex-sheriff, growing out of the shooting on the Wilmington pike, two miles from Xenia September 5, 1922, when Volney Nickells was killed and Dorsey Nickells and Warren Middleton seriously wounded. The three suits ask an aggregate of $75,000 each being for $25,000. The first was filed by Clara Nickells, as administratrix of the estate of Volney Nickells and the second by Warren Middleton, through J. A. Middleton, his next friend.

Allegations in the third suit, filed Tuesday morning, are practically the same as in the other two petitions. The petition declares that the defendant, Funderburgh, as sheriff armed himself with a rifle and gathered a posse including Joseph Day, Charles Simius and William Burns, all armed and went to the spot on the Wilmington pike, where Dorsey Nickells and other boys were playing. The petition alleges that the boys were playing under bright moonlight and that neither Dorsey Nickells or any of the other boys were committing any felony, misdemeanor violating any ordinance, nor were they about to, nor had the defendant any reasonable grounds to believe or suspect that they were about to commit any felony or misdemeanor or violate any ordinance.

Dorsey Nickells, the petition declares, was shot three times by the defendant or members of his posse under his control and direction, while he was running about 100 feet away.

The petition charges that as a result of these wounds the plaintiff is pale and anaemic; has not sufficient physical strength to perform ordinary farm duties or manual labor; that exercise causes a burning sensation around the right lung; that colds frequently settle in the right lung, that he is in an extreme nervous condition and that it is believed his condition is permanent.

The petition charges the plaintiff with being guilty of negligence.

RECEIVE WORD OF DEATH IN WEST

Friends in this city have received word of the death of Allen Thompson, 30, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson, of Hyde Park, Cincinnati, former Xenians, who had occurred at Denver, Colorado, Friday, March 30. Mr. Thompson, and his brother, Noah Thompson, had been in Denver for a number of years, on account of ill health, where they have been conducting a taxi cab business. Mr. Thompson's father was called to Denver on account of the serious illness of his aunt, Mrs. Adda Fleming. The condition of Allen Thompson became worse during his father's visit, necessitating Mrs. Thompson being sent for.

Due to the serious condition of Mrs. Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will be unable to return to Ohio with their son's body. Besides his parents, Mr. Thompson is survived by two brothers, Noah, of Denver, and John Thompson, of Cincinnati.

Then there is another great difference between our day and our grandmother's: our modern idea is to keep our houses hygienically clean the year round! We use a wool mop on our walls every month or so; we go over our floors at least twice a year; we keep our windows clean; we wash the woodwork frequently, and above all, we keep our rugs, hangings and upholstery dust-free with a vacuum cleaner.

Of course in grandmother's day there were not as many hardwood, uncarpeted floors, the rooms were not as uncluttered with bric-a-brac, and there were no vacuum cleaners. So, naturally, the old-time housekeeper had a harder battle to wage against dust. No wonder it tired her out!

For the sake of the inexperienced Housekeeper Reader of this column, I am going to give a few suggestions for Spring Housecleaning:

Begin it by cleaning the attic. Work from the top of the house down. Do one room at a time and try to keep the door closed on that room until the other rooms on that floor are done.

If you have kept your house clean the year round, with vacuum cleaner and constant attention to walls, floorboards, woodwork and windows, your most stupendous task will be that of laundering your window curtains, polishing your furniture, and sunning and airing every movable thing. For merely cleaning a thing is not enough; it needs to be sunned and aired in the open once a year, at least. Let upholstered furniture, willow chairs, rugs, and all other movable pieces spend a full day in

A PURITAN WIFE

By Jane Phelps

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Ann Peabody, a New England girl, marries Dick Beldon, a California rancher. The latter has faults plus virtues.

Grace Edmunds, working for a moving picture concern, and cousin to Ned and Bessie Prentice—near neighbors to Dick and Ann—makes the Beldon home headquarters. She tries to "vamp" Dick and eventually Ann tells her she must go. After her departure, Ann glimpses happiness until she goes with Dick into town and he drinks, forgetting all about Ann and the baby.

CHAPTER XLIX

For days Dick sulked or was wrathful. Ann was miserable.

"I've made another mistake," she said to herself. "I should have waited at the store, trusted him." Yet as she said it, Ann knew Dick was not to be trusted, that he would have remained until his mind clouded.

She was fearful he would again try to "get even" or, that to show his independence to the men who had witnessed his discomfiture, he would do something rash.

But Dick could not lose his natural sunny disposition entirely, and as usual Ann hoped he would forget to blame her. She tried harder than ever to be bright and gay, meeting his returning mood more than half way.

Little Jack, too, made it almost impossible for Dick to remain sullen; he was such a bright, lovable child. Occasionally his father took him into the orchard with him for an hour or two. The boy adored his "da-da," as he called him.

"When Jack gets a little older, Dick will stop drinking," Ann often said; "he will not want his boy to know."

Often, too, she thought: "I have so much to be thankful for, it is really his only failing now that Grace isn't here to tempt him away from us."

Doctor Grayson stopped often to chat with one or both of them, so relieving the monotony of the days, occasionally accompanied by Hugh Norton, who seldom came alone. There was nothing he could do for Ann, and his feeling for her had grown until it was hard to see her and hide it.

Ann had long turned over in her mind the advisability of speaking to Grayson about Dick's forgetfulness when he drank, but kept putting it off, hoping it would not be necessary. But one day, as they were chatting on the porch, she put a supposititious case to him, first asking him in a general way to explain the different way liquor affected people.

"The stuff men drink nowadays is apt to do almost anything to them," she told her. "Blindness, loss of the use of their limbs, and many other things can be laid to it."

"Do people ever lose their memories, forget where they have been, what they intended to do? I once knew a person who seemed to, yet would be all right the next day—although he remembered nothing of what he had forgotten until today."

"Drinkers have always been affected in that way—to a certain extent," Grayson replied. "A man will get home in some way, unlock the door, get to bed. But in the morning will have no recollection of coming home, forget when he left the place he happened to be, or who with."

"Isn't it dangerous—such loss of memory?" Ann queried. "Suppose a man doesn't drink much or often, yet every time his mind becomes a blank?"

"That is hard to say, not knowing the man. But if a small amount of liquor makes him entirely lose his memory—I should say, off hand, that it might possibly be dangerous for him to drink at all."

Ann said no more, but the conversation added to her uneasiness.

The doctor repeated this talk to Hugh Norton.

"She was talking of Dick," he told Grayson. "She doesn't have an idea that I know—what Grace Edmunds told me to as a joke. He comes home, all right, drives the flivver, then falls at once into a dead sleep. When he wakes he is practically all right, but he can recall nothing he did after he took a drink. The saving part of it is he does it but seldom. He nearly ruined his orange crop two seasons ago. Lost a lot of money. Went after men and an oil wagon to fill his heaters, drank, and didn't get home until after the frost, and without attending to anything. If it hadn't been for Prentice, he might have lost his entire crop."

"Um—pretty bad," Grayson said; "and this stuff men drink now would aggravate a weakness of that sort. Glad you told me, Norton, I'll watch Dick a bit; see if I can help him. He's a

ONE DEAD AND THREE FATALLY INJURED IN COLLISION IN TOLEDO

Cloverleaf Freight and String of Oil Tanks Come Together Early Tuesday—Flames Sweep Wreckage Following Smash.

Toledo, O., April 3.—As a result of a collision between a Cloverleaf freight train and a string of oil tanks today, one man is believed to have been killed and three others were probably fatally injured.

J. Flickinger, conductor of the tank train is missing and believed dead beneath the wreckage. The injured are J. Walding, Toledo, flagman; A. W. Thomas, engineer and W. Farris, fireman on the Clover Leaf train, of Delphos, O.

All three of the injured are suffering from scalds and internal injuries.

The wreck occurred early this morning at the Glendale avenue crossing, when the Clover Leaf freight, an extra out of Delphos, traveling at a high rate of speed, plowed through the wooden caboose of the terminal train.

The force of the collision set fire to the oil in the last tank and within a short time the entire wreckage was in flames.

The fire spread rapidly, eating up telephone and telegraph poles as well as the freight cars.

Members of the rescue crew dispatched to the scene of the wreck also had a narrow escape from serious injury when a short time after the fire started, the bridge over the Maumee, supporting the tangled trains, crashed through one car rolling into the ravine below.

The rescuers and firemen tried to reach the caboose of the terminal train, where the flagman said he saw Conductor Flickinger asleep shortly before the accident. They failed, however, and it is the belief of of-

URGE HARDING TO MAKE ISSUE OF COURT IDEAS

President Gives Ear to Nicholas Murray Butler On Subject

Augusta, Ga., April 3.—President Harding is being urged to wage a finish fight on his proposal that the United States participate in the international court of justice set up by the League of Nations.

This fact became apparent following a talk between the executive and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University. Dr. Butler was one of the "best minds" called into conference by Mr. Harding at Marion shortly after his election.

After his talk with the president, Dr. Butler expressed the opinion that the court proposal would furnish a good campaign issue. He declared in principle it is a sound Republican doctrine, pledged by Republicans of two small ends."

Dr. Butler also made the assertion that participating in the court "would be no more going into the League than going into the Holy Roman Empire." Touching on the possibility of a party split over such an issue he declared the split would be "98 and 2, with opponents to the proposal forming the small end."

The proposal was submitted by President Harding to the Senate in the closing days of the Sixty-seventh Congress, and was smothered by the foreign relations committee.

President Harding continued to lead the members of his party a merry chase over the golf links. After a foursome in the forenoon he took to the links directly after luncheon for nine holes more. The only member of the party who was able to follow the fast pace was Edward B. McLean, Mr. Harding's host. The other members of the first foursome were Dr. Butler and George James, who has charge of the transportation arrangements of the presidential trip. They were Representative Gillette of Massachusetts, former speaker, and Secretary Christian. The president expects to see his first baseball game of the season this afternoon, a clash between the Toronto team of the International League and Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers. He will be the guest of Judge Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball. Other members of the party were guests at a barbecue breakfast given by the city of Augusta. Last night they were entertained by the Augusta Lodge of Elks.

THREE ARE TAKEN IN EAST END RAID

Mrs. Eva Leach, 47, colored, was arrested and charged with possessing intoxicating liquor and Charles Bowen, 40, ex-policeman and L. A. Judy, 48, were charged with drunkenness following a raid on Mrs. Leach's home 1013 East Main Street, Monday afternoon.

All three will be given a hearing before Police Judge E. Dawson Smith Wednesday morning at nine o'clock, Mrs. Leach having been released under $500 bond shortly after her arrest. Part of a bottle of corn whiskey was confiscated by the raiders and is being held as evidence.

The raiding party was in charge of Chief of Police M. E. Graham, and included Deputy Sheriffs John Baughn and George Spencer and Patrolmen Harry Creamer and James S. Sowards.

The three were loaded into an automobile and brought to Police Headquarters where Bowen and Judy were locked up while the Leach woman was permitted to arrange for bond. Bowen said he had spent $17 at the Leach place Monday and had sold a pair of shoes there for $5 to get more money. He said another pair of shoes had been stolen from him.

ADDRESS AND PROGRAM AT P. T. A. MEETING

A tribute to mothers and to the success of the Parent-Teacher organizations in the city, was paid by Superintendent of City Schools, G. A. Waltz, in an address before the members of the Parent-Teachers Association, of Orient Hill School, at the meeting of the organization held at the school, Monday afternoon.

"The Elements of Making Success in Community Life," was the subject of Superintendent Waltz's address, his statements being devoted to praise of the Orient Hill P. T. A., as a proof of the success to be attained by the school and home organization. "The P. T. A. is working and doing its bit in bettering each section of the town," said Mr. Waltz. The P. T. A. wants better moral atmosphere, and each individual P. T. A., with that end in view and combined in federation, the work will be accomplished. The P. T. A. is composed of women united because of childhood," he said.

"Any organization based on the Golden Rule, will never die," he continued, "and the aims of the P. T. A. are to help and live for others." The address was highly instructive and appreciated by the members of the organization.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

Capital assured of protection in the Philippine Islands would quickly flow to them, says a bulletin from one of the greatest banks in America. But, it adds, there has been no thought given by Congress to the Philippines. Why?

Fruits grow in profusion in the Philippines—bananas, oranges, mangoes and particularly pineapples. The soil is peculiarly adapted to pineapples, producing fruit of delicious flavor and enormous size.

In 1921 (the latest full year's report) the United States imported from other countries bananas to the amount of $19,385,174, and pineapples $1,571,959. Figures for coconuts for the same year are more encouraging—the islands supplied us with $3,147,702, of a total of $7,381,863.

The fertility of the soil is great. There is water in abundance, and even during the dry season vegetation luxuriates. Corn, yams and potatoes flourish, and coconut plantations and hemp farms are seen on every hand. The land is ready for tilling. A big cattle industry is carried on and the cattle are of a fine breed, bringing good prices. The islands are the big producing ground of the nearby Orient.

Congress has neglected the Philippines. Recently the crude rubber situation directed attention to the islands and exploration parties are being organized under federal auspices to estimate the resources there. But here is a big agricultural field already functioning. The Philippines should be encouraged and developed to their greatest possibilities under a wide and comprehensive congressional program which will insure protection to capital needed to give the islands their greatest development.

AMERICA ENJOYS A FLOOD TIDE OF BUSINESS.

Samuel M. Vauclain, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, of Philadelphia, who some time ago was making speeches squinting toward free trade and internationalism, confessedly has had his ardor chilled by the disposition of certain foreign nations, notably Great Britain, to discriminate against American producers in foreign markets. In a speech at a noonday luncheon of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce, New York City, last week he suggested that Great Britain move toward raising the standard of living of the British working man to the American level, abandon the policy of trying to bar American business in foreign fields, and adopt the American business men's slogan, which he declared to be quality and service regardless of price. Until some such reformation has been made, Mr. Vauclain said he will remain in favor of a protective tariff wall about the United States "so high that the sun would not shine in New York City until 10 o'clock in the morning." He expressed the opinion that by those means also the reciprocal commerce between the two great English speaking nations could be increased. Touching on economic conditions Mr. Vauclain said that as far as our ability to handle it is concerned America is enjoying a flood tide of domestic business. "The outlook is through rose-tinted glass," he said, "and the mass of business offered to the manufacturers and producers of England and the United States is almost inconceivable. In expounding his conception of a desirable live and let live trade policy the speaker declared that under the present British policy "wherever and whenever possible the English manufacturer is given the opportunity to bid for the business required, while the American producer is barred."

THE MEANING OF SLANG.

Much has been written about the origin, use and abuse of slang expressions. Slang has been the subject of debate at literary societies and has its detractors and defenders. It has been defined in all sorts of ways by pedants and purists. One authority describes slang as "inelegant and unauthorized popular language consisting of words of low or illiterate origin and use." Another goes so far as to describe it as "the cant or jargon peculiar to thieves and vagrants," while another authority with a more genial disposition castigates it mildly, stating that "slang is an expression not necessarily coarse or low, and perhaps not incorrect, but below the literary grade."

It sometimes happens that a lawsuit depends upon the interpretation that is placed upon slang expression. There was such a case in the High Court of Ontario, Canada, a few weeks ago, that of Latta vs. the Acme Cheese company. An employee who had been engaged under contract for the season and who had been later dismissed for insolence, sued for breach of contract. The case was heard by Mr. Justice Mowat. The main defense of the company was that the plaintiff was always "chewing the rag" with the president. "The real basis of the chief defense," states Judge Mowat in a written judgment "was that the plaintiff and the president of the defendant company, in several encounters over the business of the factory were heard 'chewing the rag' which meant that they were heard indulging in a free exchange of hibristic epithet with mutual suggestion as in ignobility of natal origin and pungent asservation of mental inferiority."

Having thus arrived at a clear understanding of what had been taking place, the judge found that "indulgence in this verbal pastime between employer and employee, on equals terms socially and commercially, as between man and man, with give and take, is not sufficient ground for breaking of the contract."

Now if slang is an expression below the literary grade, and in "chewing the rag" really means all that Judge Mowat says it does, it might be respectfully urged that an expression of three words that can convey so much meaning at once should receive the accolade of literary respectability.

FROM A "MERE TOY" TO THE BILLION DOLLAR CLASS.

If the stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company authorize the increase of its capital stock which its officers desire, the company will thereby take its place among the few American corporations in the billion-dollar class. These include the United States Steel Corporation, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the General Motors Corporation. When it is recalled that for a long while after its invention the telephone was regarded as a mere toy, in the ultimate general acceptance of which as a practical business necessity few had much faith, the growth of the company is the more remarkable. More than 14,000,000 stations, representing an increase of 670,000 during 1922, and more than 30,000,000 miles of wire, are included in the systems operated by twenty-five associated companies earning 5.6 per cent on their book cost in 1922.

NEW WAYS TO LIVE

As the years accumulate, we learn new things about ourselves and new things about life. And, although this is a perfectly natural process, still we often take back by the simplest of revelations.

It takes time to bury many of our fondest illusions.

But as we do put them to their last rest, we walk out into a freer world than ever. We enter upon new ways to live, for we see new things to work for—and, in most cases, better things.

It is possible for anyone to choose his method of growth, whether by a series of happy or unhappy events.

I know that it is customary to believe otherwise. But custom doesn't pick men out of the ordinary and raise them to high stations of originality and power.

He grows most who faces the largest number of new ways to live.

Each day should find us all facing a new world and a new chance.

Who is there who has not known sorrow to its flood gate? And how often have we withdrawn alone to some quiet place, there to contemplate upon the strangeness of human frailty and our own numberless lacks.

But if we only come back to the crowd of moving men and women again with rebuilt resolves and washed out hearts, we need have no fear of our fate.

No matter how hard or far you may have fallen—get up! There is always a new way to live. And the chances are that the new way will be better than the old.

SWIMMING BEACH BELIEVED ASSURED FOLLOWING MEETING

Assurance that a swimming beach will be developed in the Dodds addition this spring as the first step in the proposed program of playground and recreational facilities for this city was given at the meeting of the executive committee of the Community Recreation Association held at City Hall Monday night.

This was the first meeting of the executive committee formed at the meeting at McKinley School a week ago. The belief that the swimming beach can be developed is based on the fact that F. W. Dodds, who is developing the Roberts tract has loaned the use of sufficient territory in the proposed park tract and also on the report of a committee appointed to survey the situation, and which reported that the plan is practicable.

The committee reported that by cleaning out the bottom of the lowlands to the level of the creek bed and putting in a layer of sand and gravel a maximum depth of seven feet can be obtained without raising the water level higher than was kept for the skating pond last winter. From the deepest part, the gravelled bottom, according to the plans proposed, will slope up to a safe wading depth for small children, making a total area of 10 by 150 feet under water. With community assistance on the project the plan will be carried out this spring.

Monday night's meeting was for the purpose of outlining a recreation program for Xenia. During the discussion it was pointed out how strongly the sentiment of the community was becoming aroused for the development of the play facilities within the city limits and how easily it can be accomplished when the energy of the entire citizen body, working through committees, is applied to the task.

A communication was read at the meeting from the Playground and Recreation Association of America in which it was stated that upon request they would send one of their trained workers into Xenia to show backers of the movement here how to organize and carry on the recreation work through local associations. The organization is philanthropic and does not ask the local organization for pledges of money in return for this assistance.

The executive committee will meet again Thursday night at which time it will be decided whether an effort will be made to obtain this free assistance from the expert workers.

UTILITIES MEMBERS REFUSE TO RESIGN

Columbus, April 3.—Frank B. Maul and George T. Poor, members of the public utilities commission, refused to tender their resignations, as requested by Governor Donahay. They said they were only concerned in giving the public and utilities a square deal and denied the right of the governor to interfere with the work of the commission."

FILE SUIT AGAINST KIRBY

Cleveland, April 3.—A $1,500,000 suit against Josiah Kirby, former president of the Cleveland Discount company, was instituted here by the receivers of the concern. The suit was brought because of Kirby's alleged action in having himself appointed sales agent for the company at the time it was organized. The sum named is said to be the amount of stock outstanding and charged to Kirby at the time of his resignation, and moneys loaned to the Sharon Pressed Steel company.

THIRD SUIT ASKING DAMAGES OF FORMER SHERIFF IS FILED

Alleging permanent injuries as the result of being shot three times by the defendant or members of his posse, Dorsey Nickells, a minor, by Clara Nickells, as his next friend, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Lincoln Funderburgh, former sheriff of Greene County asking damages in the sum of $25,000.

The suit is the third filed by Attorney C. L. Darlington for plaintiffs against the ex-sheriff, growing out of the shooting on the Wilmington pike, two miles from Xenia September 5, 1922, when Volney Nickells was killed and Dorsey Nickells and Warren Middleton seriously wounded. The three suits ask an aggregate of $75,000 each being for $25,000. The first was filed by Clara Nickells, as administratrix of the estate of Volney Nickells and the second by Warren Middleton, through J. A. Middleton, his next friend.

Allegations in the third suit, filed Tuesday morning, are practically the same as in the other two petitions. The petition declares that the defendant, Funderburgh, as sheriff armed himself with a rifle and gathered a posse including Joseph Day, Charles Simms and William Burns, all armed and went to the spot on the Wilmington pike, where Dorsey Nickells and other boys were playing. The petition alleges that the boys were playing under bright moonlight and that neither Dorsey Nickells or any of the other boys were committing any felony, misdemeanor violating any ordinance, nor were they about to, nor had the defendant any reasonable grounds to believe or suspect that they were about to commit any felony or misdemeanor or violate any ordinance.

Dorsey Nickels, the petition declares, was shot three times by the defendant or members of his posse under his control and direction, while he was running about 100 feet away.

The petition charges that as a result of these wounds the plaintiff is pale and anaemic; has not sufficient physical strength to perform ordinary farm duties or manual labor, that exercise causes a burning sensation around the right lung; that colds frequently settle in the right lung, that he is in an extreme nervous condition and that it is believed his condition is permanent.

The petition charges the plaintiff with being guilty of negligence.
